Three University of Minnesota web pages have been selected as ACUTA Member Sites to See for the first quarter of 2007. The University of Minnesota is being recognized for their particularly effective Internet sites for this quarter. The topic of this quarter's competition was E-Training for Communications Technology.

"The school's sites [<http://uttc.umn.edu/training/tutorials/go4msg/index.html>, <http://www1.umn.edu/nts/go4msg/>, and <https://breeze5.umn.edu/p11905370>] were selected based on the criteria of content delivery, timeliness, ease of use, accessibility, and graphic appeal," according to Beth Chancellor, chair of the ACUTA Web Site Recognition Task Force.

The pages will be featured on the ACUTA home page (<http://www.acuta.org>) after March 1, and the University will be recognized for this achievement in the March issue of ACUTA e-News and at ACUTA's Annual Conference in Hollywood, Florida, July 29 - August 2, 2007.

Addressing voice, data and video communications needs for higher education, ACUTA - The Association for Communications Technology Professionals in Higher Education - serves nearly 800 institutions of higher education and 2,000 communications technology professionals from across the United States and Canada as well as Australia and New Zealand. ACUTA holds three national seminars and one conference annually to provide educational sessions and promote networking among campus communications technology professionals.
